A collection of various handmade soaps in different colors and shapes, including white, pink, and light green, arranged on a wooden surface with small white flowers and greenery. The background is a dark, textured surface with a diamond pattern.

Herbal soap collection

Made of unique and rare herbs, herbal soaps are 100% natural ingredients and are found to be highly beneficial for the skin. The herbs infused in these soaps have therapeutic and healing characteristics that offer specific benefits to the skin. The soaps containing vitamins and essential oils lead to the goodness of skin as well as the overall health.

The background of the advertisement features several bars of handmade soap in various colors (white, light pink, and light green) resting on a bed of dried, brown palm fronds. Interspersed among the soap and palm are clusters of small, delicate white flowers, likely baby's breath. A semi-transparent dark grey banner with a white diamond-shaped grid pattern is overlaid across the center of the image, containing the text.

SciCentral Journal JIRT,4(S1);22

Conclusion of study: Based on this study, our soap products had better inhibition effect on different type of bacteria strains than the commercial soaps present in the market

Antibacterial activities

The analysis of Figure 1A shows that Staphylococcus aureus is sensitive on all soaps except Lux, Johnson, Palmolive, and Saifan. Noting that the diameter of the sage soap inhibition zone is more remarkable than other soaps (p -value < 0.01). In contrast, Staphylococcus epidermidis showed bacterial resistance to all types of soaps except those based on essential oils as shown in Figure 1B. Similarly, Pseudomonas aeruginosa and Enterobacter showed a significant sensitivity only to soaps made in the eco-village of Bader Hassoun (p -value < 0.001) as shown in Figure 1C, 1D. In contrast, the Escherichia coli strain showed bacterial resistance against all types of used soaps in this study.
